Graduate Research Assistantships (Master) in Urban Entomology for Hispanic Students

The department of Entomology, Plant Pathology and Weed Science at New Mexico State University, Las Cruces (https://eppws.nmsu.edu/) has openings in the area of Urban Entomology. The successful candidate will be a highly-motivated and independent individual capable of conducting laboratory and field research on urban pests, including bed bugs, kissing bugs, cockroaches, scorpions, or fleas (https://aces.nmsu.edu/theromerolab/)

The student will be associated with the NIFA-USDA “Enhancing Hispanic Access to Natural Resource and Agricultural Careers through Education, Mentorship, and Training (ENHANCEMENT)”. This program offers a number of extra-curricular activities through our partnership with USDA agencies.

Salary and benefits package will be competitive, and will - In-State Tuition, Health Insurance Available w/University. The position will be located in Las Cruces, New Mexico and must be filled in January 2023.

Application Procedure: Interested applicants should submit the following to Alvaro Romero via email: (aromero2@nmsu.edu):

1. Cover letter describing your research experience, interests, and career goals
2. CV (including GPA and GRE scores, if taken)
3. Unofficial transcript(s)
4. Name and contact information for three references

New Mexico State University is a Hispanic Serving Institution as well as an equal access/equal opportunity university.

Dr. Alvaro Romero
Associate Professor
Phone: 575-646-5550
aromero2@nmsu.edu